Selection Process & Eligibility

National Philanthropy Day Awards Selection Committee members review and score all nominations according to the criteria provided (see below). The Awards Selection Committee will include community leaders, previous honorees, past Philanthropy Day leadership, and regional AFP leaders.

As listed below, nominations are evaluated using scoring criteria specific to each award category. For nominations to be considered complete, each scoring criteria must be addressed separately, and incomplete nominations will not be considered. The most compelling nominations address in measurable ways how the nominee has directly impacted specific organizations and causes. Judges may choose not to present an award for any category where no nominee meets the criteria. All decisions of the Selection Committee are final.

AFPCCC's current President, President-Elect, and National Philanthropy Day Awards Committee Chairs are ineligible to receive an award. Previous honorees are ineligible for seven (7) years after receipt of their award.
